

St. Louis Business Journal - August 28, 2008

<http://stlouis.bizjournals.com/stlouis/stories/2008/08/25/daily78.html>

St. Louis Business Journal

Thursday, August 28, 2008

Agrotain to open fertilizer facilities

St. Louis Business Journal

Agrotain International and its parent, Lange-Stegmann Co., will open its two new St. Louis fertilizer facilities Sept. 16.

The facilities, built for $20 million, were constructed to meet the growing demand for imported urea.

“The new Urea Center will allow our customers to use the facility as part of their own supply networks and provide affordable access to urea fertilizer from around the world,” said Mike Stegmann, president of Lange-Stegmann Co., in a statement. “Our Stabilized Nitrogen Center, on the other hand, will help improve the efficiency of nitrogen from urea in this time of record-breaking demand, when growers need the most from every ounce of their fertilizer investment.”

St. Louis-based Agrotain International produces fertilizer.

All contents of this site © American City Business Journals Inc. All rights reserved.